

Linda Freedman is a Lecturer in British and American literature at University College London. She is the author of Emily Dickinson and the Religious Imagination (CUP 2011) and is completing a book on William Blake and America. She has published widely on nineteenth and twentieth-century English and American literature and has an on-going interest in teaching and researching transatlantic and interdisciplinary connections.